Revision Timetables

During year 11, you have a lot to think about and a lot of different things which you have to juggle. You should revise independently so that you can close the specific gaps which you have in your knowledge.

However, because you have to plan your own independent revision, it's easy to forget revision or to only do it in large bursts right before an assessment.

Planning when and what you are going to revise reduces the number of decisions you need to make every day and will reduce the risks of you not revising or your revision being ineffective because you have left it until the last minute.

Prioritise your subjects

- List all your subjects
- Rank your subjects from number 1 -9 (1 being strongest)
- Then re-write your list in the order of the subjects you have numbered.
- Highlight your areas of weakness in red to help prioritise these first.

Writing your timetable

1. Write in everything you have planned prior to creating your revision timetable. (Going out for tea, going to the gym, playing sport etc)
2. Write in upcoming exams & deadlines
3. Not every space needs to be full – leave yourself time to relax too!
4. Focus on the subjects in RED first, these are the ones you are least likely going to choose – but they are the highest priority.
5. Write in the subjects you are going to cover and when. Be specific around what you will cover each time you sit down and revise.

Managing your time when revising

Pomodoro technique is highly effective as it helps you effectively manage your time and work on a task without distractions. It is also beneficial as it helps you become more disciplined and think about your work. This technique is designed to combat multitasking and improve concentration.

When revising:

STEP 1

Pick a task

STEP 2

Set a 25-minute timer

STEP 3

Work on your task until the time is up

STEP 4

Take a 5 minute break

STEP 5

Every 4 pomodoros, take a longer 15-30 minute break

Do:

- Get into a routine of revising at a particular point every day.
- Revise when you are well-rested or at a time when you are used to working.
- Take regular small breaks.

Don't:

- Depend on when you want to revise.
- Revise late at night or when you are tired.
- Try to force yourself to work for long periods of time without a break.

9 Ways to Beat Revision Stress

by @inner_drive | www.innerdrive.co.uk

1
Do the actual work – revise!

2
When really stressed, talk to someone about it

3
Get some fresh air each day

4
Stick to regular meal times

5
Do something to switch off an hour before bed

6
Don't dwell on worst case scenarios

7
A good sleep the night before is better than last minute cramming

8
Once you've done the exam, move on to the next one

9
Don't aim for perfection – it's a myth and doesn't exist

Revision tips for your learning style

Visual learners

- Visual materials such as pictures, charts, maps and graphs.
- Use colour
- Highlighting and summarising large texts, use a key to help identify key words, definitions and information.
- Colour code your notes.
- Illustrate ideas using mind maps and pictures.
- Use multimedia e.g. videos and PowerPoints.
- TV documentaries.
- Study in quiet places to avoid distractions.

Auditory learners

- Participate in discussions/debates about topics you are trying to learn.
- Make speeches or presentations
- Use voice notes to record your own notes and play them back.
- Sometimes use music or noise to help learning.
- Use songs, rhymes, raps to help remember information.
- Podcasts – listen to podcasts of key topics.

Kinaesthetic learners

- Role play
- Note taking
- Copying out notes and using highlighters
- Create small games, competitions to learn
- Use songs, raps and music to help learning
- YouTube – flipped learning
- Posters, mind maps and table writing.

Brain Dump

Choose a topic and write down as much as you can remember, without referring to your notes. Check your notes and see what you missed then try fill the gaps without the notes. Check your notes a third time and add the missing information.

Flash cards

Write flash cards for each topic, in all subjects, then mix them up for the most effective revision. Check out the Leitner System for effective spacing and interleaving. Keep your flash cards simple – one question, one answer per card.

Map it out

Take an essay question or writing question and map out your answer, without writing a full response. Look at the mark scheme and decide if you plan meets the criteria. DO this for a number of questions, then choose one and write the full response.

Past papers

Ask your teacher for practice questions or exam papers. Complete them without notes in the exam conditions, then check your answers and identify the gaps in your knowledge, so you can target your revision.

Quizzes

Write a set of questions and answers and ask someone to test you. Its important to either write or say your answers loud. Reading through quizzes in your head can give you a false sense of security.

Thinking hard: Reduce

Read a section of your notes then put them aside and reduce what you need into 3 bullet points, each one no more than 10 words. Look back at the notes and decide if you missed anything important. Hide the notes and write a fourth bullet point.

Practice Introductions

For essay subjects, take a past exam question and practice writing effective introductions and conclusion. Look back at your notes and remind yourself of the important things to remember. Practice for different topics, texts and papers.

Thinking hard: Connect

For each subject, consider the exam paper and group together questions that require the same technique to answer. Write down the requirements for each type. Find a previous example you have completed and identify where you've met the criteria.

Thinking hard: Transform

Read a paragraph from your notes or a text book, and transform it into a diagram, chart or sketch – no words allowed. OR Look a diagram in science, for example, and transform it into a paragraph of explanation.

Key vocabulary

For a particular topic, make a list of key vocabulary, then do the following: define each word; use each term in a sentence; create a question where the key word is the answer; identify other words which connect to each of the words in your list.

Revision Strategies

Mind Maps

How To:

- Use a landscape sheet of A4 or A3 paper.
- Put the topic in the centre.
- Main Branches: Your branches should have one word or two for clarity. Think of each branch as a heading in an essay or a book.
- Sub-branches: From your main branches draw sub-branches and from those sub-branches you can draw more branches. Here you can create associations between ideas.

Top Tips:

- Use COLOUR to make it visually interesting. Use a different colour for different branches to link the learning together.
- Draw pictures. They don't need to be a work of art, but they will help you to remember it.
- Make sure each branch is curved and not straight. The brain is more stimulated by curved lines.

Summarising and Highlighting

How To:

- Find the key information within a text and highlight.
- Try to limit the information you highlight to only the most important information.

Top Tips:

- Use a key! Try to set a key using colours for the information you are highlighting, for example,
 Yellow → Highlight in yellow important points, facts, examples etc.
 Pink → Use pink (or orange) to denote material that is even more important than what's in yellow.
 Blue → Reserve blue for words that will subsequently be defined (and then put their definitions in pink), titles or special terms.
 Green → Mark in green dates, names or places that you will need to remember. Green can also be used for formulas.
 Purple → If the material contains any rules, use the boldness of purple to set them apart.

Flash Cards

How To:

- Use a small piece of coloured card to write key facts/information on.
- You could also write questions and answers on, using both sides.

Top Tips:

- Use for testing and not summarising information
- One idea, one card
- Use both texts and pictures (65% more info remembered when visual)
- Spaced repetition to memorise

9 ways to use retrieval when revising

Retrieval practice is one of the most effective ways to revise. By answering questions rather than merely reading or highlighting information, you're putting yourself in the best position possible to succeed and remember as much of your subjects as possible. Past papers, essays, multiple choice tests and flashcards are a great way of doing it.

Top Tips:

- Impress the examiner by using two different tenses in the same sentence. For example, you could use both the preterite and imperfect tenses.
- Use a variety of connectives such as: también (also), además (moreover), pero (but), sin embargo (however), por eso / por lo tanto (therefore), así que (so), entonces (then), luego (later), aunque (although), aún (even), antes (before), después (after), por ejemplo (for example), tal como (such as) and so on.
- Use exclamation expressions to show surprise, fear, happiness etc.: ¡Qué horror! – How awful!; ¡Qué miedo! – How scary!; ¡Qué bien! – Great!; ¡Qué suerte! – How lucky!; ¡Qué pena! – What a shame!
- Use the subjunctive.
- Remember to justify your opinions.
- Use a wide range of vocabulary, show off to the examiner just how many different words you know!
- Try to also use some idioms in your speaking and writing exams to really impress the examiner

Top Tips:

- Ensure you get your timings right – you have one mark a minute in the exam.
- Do not read the exam like a book – choose the questions you are most comfortable with first, not Q1, Q2, Q3 etc.
- Always refer to the figure in the exam – they are there for a reason, and you will miss out marks if you do not.
- Attempt every question, do not leave anything blank – you will have the time
- Don't forget to complete graphs, tables, add lines of best fit these are normally one marker questions but the marks build up.
- Any information given in the questions, please use it and quote it support your answers.
- If you have to complete some shading ensure you use the shading that is shown in the key.
- Breakdown the longer mark answers using the BUS techniques.
- Do not answer the Glaciers Question on Paper One (Physical).
- Do not answer the food and energy questions on Paper Two (Human)

Top Tips:

- Ensure you get your timings right for the questions – 4 mark questions = 5 minutes, 8 mark questions = 10 minutes, 12 marks = 15 minutes and 16 mark questions + 4 SPaG = 20 minutes
- Attempt the questions worth the most marks first to ensure you complete them and get the most reward for your time. You don't have to complete the paper in question order.
- For the 16 mark questions on Conflict and Elizabeth I there are 4 marks for SPaG, so ensure you write in paragraphs, use punctuation where appropriate and spell key historical words accurately.
- Ensure you know the guidance for each question, so you understand what the examiner is looking for e.g. for Q3 on the America unit, include knowledge only and do not analyse the sources content and provenance again. These are included in the revision guides.
- Use Seneca learning to revise. You can redo topics and try to improve your scores.

What your final GCSE assessment will look like – 100% exam (2 x 1hr 45-minute papers)
